Before She Knew Him : A Novel

by Swanson, Peter

From the hugely talented author of KIND WORTH KILLING comes an exquisitely chilling tale of a young suburban wife with a history of psychological instability whose fears about her new neighbour could lead them both to murder.... Hen and her husband have settled into a quiet life in a new house outside of Boston. Hen has finally found the right meds to control her bipolar disorder. But when they meet the neighbours next door, that calm begins to erode as she spots a familiar object displayed on the husband's office shelf. The sports trophy looks exactly like one that went missing from the home of a young man who was killed two years ago. Hen knows because she's long had a fascination with this unsolved murder.

Longevity Paradox : How to Die Young at a Ripe Old Age

by Gundry, Steven R.

How do we solve the paradox of wanting to live to a ripe old age - but enjoy the benefits of youth? This groundbreaking book holds the answer. Working with thousands of patients, Dr. Gundry has discovered that the “diseases of aging” we most fear are not simply a function of age; rather, they are a byproduct of the way we have lived over the decades. In The Longevity Paradox, he maps out a new approach to aging well - one that is based on supporting the health of the “oldest” parts of us: the microorganisms that live within our bodies.

Once More We Saw Stars : A Memoir

by Greene, Jayson

A moving, transcendent memoir of loss and a stunning exploration of marriage in the wake of unimaginable grief. As the book opens: two-year-old Greta Greene is sitting with her grandmother on a park bench on the Upper West Side of Manhattan. A brick crumbles from a windowsill overhead, striking her unconscious, and she is immediately rushed to the hospital. But although it begins with this event and with the anguish Jayson and his wife, Stacy, confront in the wake of their daughter’s trauma and the hours leading up to her death, it quickly becomes a narrative that is as much about hope and healing as it is about grief and loss.

Paris Diversion : A Novel

by Pavone, Chris

After the events of EXPATS, Kate Moore and her husband Dexter have settled into a new life in Paris. The last thing she expects when she hears sirens while dropping her kids off at school is for her entire life to be turned upside down. With a suicide bomber outside the Louvre, a tech CEO and old nemesis of Dexter’s missing, and no orders coming from Langley, Kate must partner with a French agent to figure out who is orchestrating the attack. Minute by minute, she comes closer to the truth - that the past she hoped she left behind might be closer than she thinks. And if she can’t stop the shadowy figure behind it all, Paris may never be the same.

Playing for Keeps : A Heartbreaker Bay Novel

by Shalvis, Jill

Heartbreaker Bay #7, following HOT WINTER NIGHTS. When it comes to the confident, charismatic Caleb Parker, Sadie Lane feels the spark - the kind that comes from rubbing each other the wrong way. She's yoga pants, he's a suit. She's a tattoo artist, he's a straight-laced mogul. But after they accidentally co-rescue an abandoned dog from a storm, Sadie sees a vulnerable side to the seemingly invincible hottie. Both guarded and vulnerable, Sophie and Caleb are complete opposites. Or are they? Shocked at their undeniable connection, can they ever admit to wanting more? That all depends on what they're each willing to risk.

Prisoner

by Rezaian, Jason

The dramatic memoir of the journalist who was held hostage in a high-security prison in Tehran for 18 months and whose release - which almost didn't happen - became a part of the Iran nuclear deal. In July 2014, Washington Post Tehran bureau chief Jason Rezaian was arrested by Iranian police, accused of spying for America. The charges were absurd. Rezaian's reporting was a mix of human interest stories and political analysis. He had even served as a guide for Anthony Bourdain's Parts Unknown. Initially, Rezaian thought the whole thing was a terrible misunderstanding, but soon realized that it was much more dire.

River : A Novel

by Heller, Peter

From the bestselling author of DOG STARS, this is a masterful tale of wilderness survival. It is the story of two college friends on a wilderness canoe trip - a gripping tale of a friendship tested by fire, white water, and violence. Wynn and Jack have been best friends since freshman orientation. When they decide to canoe the Maskwa River in northern Canada, they anticipate long days of leisurely paddles and nights of stargazing. But a wildfire making its way across the forest adds unexpected urgency to the journey. Then they hear a man and woman arguing on the fog-shrouded riverbank but their search for the pair turns up nothing and no one. The next day a man appears on the river, paddling alone....

Someone Knows

by Scottoline, Lisa

A pulse-pounding domestic thriller about a group of friends who have been bound by a single secret - and will now be undone by it. Twenty years ago, in an upscale suburb of Philadelphia, four teenagers spent a summer as closest friends: drinking, sharing secrets, testing boundaries. When a new boy looked to join them, they decided to pull a prank on him, convincing him to play Russian roulette as an initiation into their group. They secretly planned to leave the gun unloaded - but what happened next would change each of them forever. The guilt drove them apart. But after one of the group apparently commits suicide with a gun, their old secrets come roaring back.

Source of Self-Regard : Selected Essays, Speeches, and Meditations

by Morrison, Toni

SOURCE OF SELF-REGARD is brimming with all the elegance of mind and style, the literary prowess and moral compass that are Toni Morrison's inimitable hallmark. It is divided into three parts: the first is introduced by a powerful prayer for the dead of 9/11; the second by a searching meditation on Martin Luther King Jr., and the last by a heart-wrenching eulogy for James Baldwin. In the writings and speeches included here, Morrison takes on contested social issues: the foreigner, female empowerment, the press, money, "black matter(s)," and human rights.

Verses for the Dead

by Preston, Douglas

Pendergast #18, following CITY OF ENDLESS NIGHT. After an overhaul of leadership at the FBI's NY field office, Pendergast is abruptly forced to accept an unthinkable condition: the famously rogue agent must now work with a partner. Pendergast and his new teammate are assigned to Miami Beach, where a rash of killings by a bloodthirsty psychopath are distinguished by a confounding M.O.: cutting out the hearts of his victims and leaving them at local gravestones - all belonged to women who committed suicide. But the seeming lack of connection between the old suicides and the new murders is soon the least of Pendergast's worries.

White Elephant : A Novel

by Langsdorf, Julie

A turf war between neighbours leads to a small-town crisis in this hilarious, addictive, and sharply observant DEBUT novel. The White Elephant looms large over the quaint suburban town of Willard Park: a gaudy, newly constructed behemoth of a home, it soars over the neighbourhood, dwarfing the houses that surround it. When owner Nick Cox cuts down Allison and Ted Millers' precious red maple - in an effort to make his unsightly property more appealing to buyers - their once serene town becomes a battleground. Newcomers and longtime residents alike begin to clash in conflicting pursuits of the American Dream, with trees mysteriously uprooted, fires set, fingers pointed, and lines drawn.
